Welcome Note

Dear Industry Partners,

On behalf of the ESPES (European Society of Paediatric Endoscopic Surgeons) and GAPS (Greek Association of Paediatric Surgeons), as the Local Host, it is our great pleasure to invite you to the 15th Annual ESPES Congress, taking place from 15–17 October 2025 in Athens, Greece.

Held in the historic Zappeion Megaron, a landmark of Greek heritage for over 130 years, the congress will bring together the global community of Paediatric Surgeons in the birthplace of Western civilization. As Europe's largest event dedicated to Paediatric Minimally Invasive Surgery (MIS) and one of the most significant worldwide, the ESPES Annual Congress remains at the forefront of innovation, education, and collaboration.

We expect to welcome around 400 participants from across Europe and around the world, making this an excellent opportunity to connect with key professionals and leaders in the field.

The scientific program will include Keynote Lectures, Round Tables, Master Classes, and Hands-On Workshops, addressing the latest advancements in Paediatric Endoscopic Surgery. Esteemed speakers from around the world will foster knowledge exchange among surgeons, researchers, and residents.

Key Features of the Congress:

- Networking with international experts, peers, and industry leaders.
- Showcasing cutting-edge advancements in Paediatric MIS.
- Sharing best practices to improve patient care and outcomes.
- Providing a premier platform for exploring innovations and shaping the future of Paediatric Surgery

Athens, a city blending ancient history with modern vibrancy, will provide an inspiring backdrop for three days of learning, collaboration, and networking.

We look forward to welcoming you to Athens and advancing the future of Paediatric Endosurgery together!

ESPES President

Isabela Draghici

Congress Chairman

Aggelos Marantos

Athens Europe's cradle of civilization, has shaped history since the Neolithic era. Its 5th-century BC Golden Age laid the foundations of Western culture and democracy, marking the peak of its cultural and political influence. Over centuries, conquerors left behind magnificent monuments, creating a rare historical palimpsest. In 1834, Athens became the capital of modern Greece and, over the past two centuries, has blossomed into a vibrant metropolis, retaining its unmatched charm.

The “core” of the historic center is the Plaka neighborhood, located on the eastern side of the Acropolis. This area has been continuously inhabited since antiquity. As you stroll through its narrow, labyrinthine streets, lined with houses and mansions from the Neoclassical period (19th century) and earlier, you will feel as if you are traveling through time.

Zappeion Conference & Exhibition Center

The Zappeion, named after its benefactor Evangelis Zappas, was the first building (1888) constructed specifically for the revival of the Olympic Games in the modern era (1896).

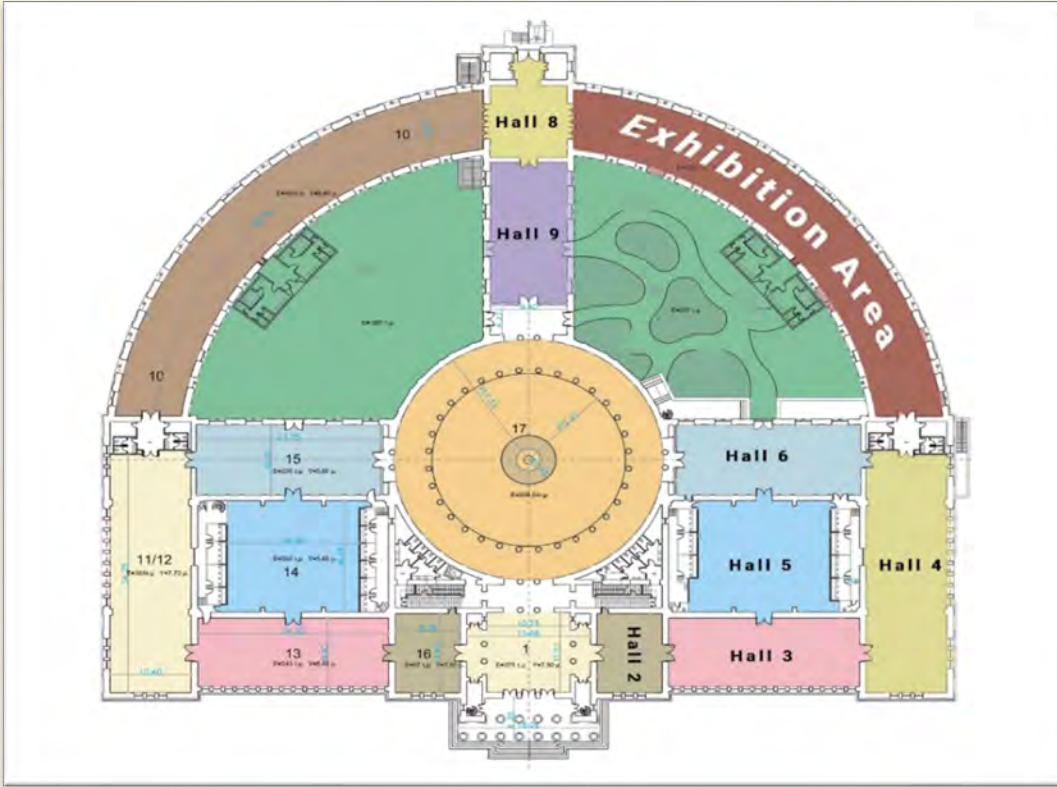

For over 120 years, the Zappeion Exhibition Hall has witnessed Athens' history and hosted pivotal moments, such as Greece's accession to the European Economic Community on May 29, 1979.

The Zappeion has always been closely linked to the Olympic Movement, with its most recent renovation carried out in preparation for the Athens Olympic Games of 2004. Throughout its history, the building has served many purposes: it housed the country's first state radio station and functioned as a hospital, a storehouse, and later, barracks. Today, it stands as a landmark of the Greek capital, embodying the vision of its donor and remaining a symbol of Athens' cultural heritage.

Important Information for Supporters

- Reservations: For exhibition space or alternative sponsorship opportunities, please contact the Congress Secretariat or complete and send the reservation form at the end of this brochure. You are also encouraged to use the submission form available on the congress website for reservations. Once your reservation is confirmed, you will receive a contract, including a floor plan indicating the location of your exhibition booth.
- Allocation Policy: Exhibition spaces are allocated on a "first come, first served" basis, so early submissions are strongly encouraged to secure preferred locations.
- Booth Materials: Exhibitors may bring and use their own materials, provided they adhere to the specified booth dimensions (maximum height: 2.20 m). Custom booth designs must comply with the venue's safety and accessibility regulations.
- Setup and Exhibition Personnel: Exhibitors are welcome to use their own personnel for booth setup, provided they adhere to the congress' timeline and safety standards during installation and dismantling. Additionally, companies may register up to two (2) individuals per booth as personnel under normal circumstances. Any exceptions to this limit may be discussed with the Congress Secretariat. Badges will be provided on-site to certify the presence of registered personnel in the congress area. Higher-tier sponsors are allowed a number of personnel as defined by their selected Sponsorship Opportunity Level
- Schedule & Logistics: Additional details, such as the booth construction schedule, congress working hours, and access policies for setup and teardown, will be discussed and finalized during the reservation process and upon confirmation of your space.
- Technical Support: AV equipment and additional furniture rental services are available upon request. Exhibitors are encouraged to communicate any special requirements in advance.
- Personnel Access: Exhibit personnel are welcome to participate in the provided coffee breaks and meals.
- EACCME® Standards: ESPES and GAPS, in collaboration with the official PCO, adhere to EACCME® standards. We greatly value industry support and aim to offer meaningful, compliant sponsorship opportunities. All proposals — including visibility options and satellite sessions — will be reviewed with the PCO and the Committees to ensure alignment with accreditation guidelines while highlighting your important contribution.
